Bruno Salvati is a director with little success who's just separated from his wife Anna, with whom he had two children, 20-year-old Adele and 17-year-old Tito. Following a sudden illness, Bruno is diagnosed with disease that requires a donor. All of his familial relationships are reevaluated, including that with his father Umberto, who guards a secret that will force Bruno to go on a journey in search of someone who can help him.
